

“Tell me and I’ll forget; show me and I’ll remember”.

I am Chris Taylor, a commercial photographer in Kent with over 20 years of experience behind the lens. I’ve seen how photographs can elicit an emotional response in people. How they can be used to communicate information quickly and be easier to ‘read’ than text.

My photos are used to inspire, inform, promote, sell or entertain. As promotion in the commercial world becomes an ever visual medium, professional photography is something we all need.

I ran CTP Photography with my father for many years. After a re-launch in 2012, www.takenbychris.co.uk builds on the experience I have garnered over the years to provide professional commercial photography across the UK and internationally.

CURRENT PROJECTS

Product Photography:

Stunning and consistent product images for websites and catalogues. I can even bring studio equipment and lighting to you for convenience.

Industrial Photography:

Professional photography ideal for architects, building firms, factories and industrial manufacturers.

Hotel and Building Photography:

I have experience shooting hotels, venues, resorts and attractions nationwide.

Website and Marketing Photography:

Personalised photography for online marketing. Better value and more effective than stock images.

I won’t take on briefs where I feel my photography won’t blow you away and I only use editing software for minor touch-ups; I prefer to let the photography do the talking.

Book me for a shoot at <http://www.takenbychris.co.uk> or call 01959 533268.